

Short Biography Jean Gelissen

Jean Gelissen worked for most of his professional life at Philips Research in Eindhoven. He started in digital signal processing, both in software and hardware development and gained large experience in computer networks, formal specification methods, multimedia as well as multimedia processing architectures and embedded software domain with a focus on architectures and methodology. He has been Department Head of the IPA (Information Processing Architectures) department in the Lifestyle program of Philips Research and has been appointed to Senior Director of Strategic Partnerships for the Lifestyle program at Philips Research in 2006. Since 2011, he is Action Line Leader health & Wellbeing at EIT ICT Lab and is based in Eindhoven.

"The challenge is to accomplish people to live uncompromised, safe and active lives through to an advanced age. Enabling active healthy ageing and independent living while at the same time avoiding social exclusion." Jean Gelissen

EIT ICT Labs

High Tech Campus 69-1C

5656 AG Eindhoven

www.eitictlabs.eu.

More information on the Action Line Health & Wellbeing