

My name is Alexandra Roatis. I am a PhD student at University Paris South and member of the Inria research group OAK. My research field is integration of RDF data in dataware

I have just finished the first year of my PhD.

I registered to Imagine the Future in ICT because topics look very interesting and because we always need to learn more about the state of research in a thematic.

I appreciate very much the lectures of the guest speakers, also from those coming from other fields.

I also appreciate very much the networking and the opportunity to come up with new ideas and possibilities of collaboration. We can participate directly during the brainstorming sessions and see what guest speakers think about our ideas.

Alexandra Roatis

*PhD student at University Paris South
Member of the Inria research group OAK*